What is the Board of Zoning Appeals?

In Herndon, the Board of Zoning Appeals consists of five members appointed by the Town Council. The Board is charged with the specific duty of ruling on certain zoning questions. It reviews applications where a property owner seeks a variance from a specific zoning provision due to certain types of hardship or unusual circumstances. It also reviews appeals from members of the public about decisions by the zoning administrator regarding:

- ✧ land use determinations;
- ✧ administrative adjustments;
- ✧ temporary uses;
- ✧ zoning inspection permits; and
- ✧ zoning appropriateness permits.

What is a "Variance"?

The Code of Virginia and the Town Council of Herndon allow for a formal process, called a Variance, of considering how zoning regulations may affect certain hardship situations. A Variance is a relaxation of a specific zoning provision. It is reviewed upon request on a case by case basis and may be approved only when the Board of Zoning Appeals finds that

- ✧ owing to special circumstances or conditions beyond the property owner's control (such as exceptional topographical conditions, narrowness, shallowness, or the shape of a specific parcel of land), the strict application

- of the terms of the zoning ordinance would result in unnecessary or unreasonable hardship;
- ✧ such need is not shared generally by other properties;
- ✧ the relaxation of a zoning provision would not be contrary to the public interest or intent of the Zoning Ordinance; and
- ✧ the application does not involve a change in use from those permitted in Article V of the zoning ordinance.

A Variance may not be used to allow the establishment or expansion of a use otherwise permitted.

In authorizing a variance the Board may impose such conditions regarding the location, character, and other features of the proposed structure for use as it may deem necessary in the public interest. The Board may require a guarantee or bond to insure that the conditions imposed are being and will continue to be in compliance.

What is a "Zoning Administrator Determination"?

The Code of Virginia and the Town Council of Herndon vest the Zoning Administrator with the unique legal authority to interpret zoning regulations and to make final decisions about how the regulations may or may not apply to a specific property or situation. Usually a request is made to the zoning administrator to make such a final decision. The zoning administrator's response is documented in formal correspondence to the person making the request. This correspondence is the "zoning administrator determination." When the person who initiated the request, or another interested person, disagrees with the finding of the zoning administrator, the person has the right to appeal the finding to the Board of Zoning Appeals. The Board of Zoning Appeals may overturn the zoning administrator's determination, amend it, or affirm it.

What is the process for applying for a Variance or for filing a Notice of Appeal?

The Board of Zoning Appeals holds a public hearing on the fourth working Thursday of every month as indicated on the Herndon Town Calendar. The meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. in the Herndon Council Chambers located at 765 Lynn Street, Herndon, Virginia. The meetings are held in the main Town Council Chamber. Applicants are requested to attend the public hearing when the application is discussed. If an applicant is not present or not represented by another person to answer questions regarding the application, it is probable that the application will be postponed or denied.

Application forms are available from the Department of Community Development. For a Variance, other materials must be submitted with the application. The deadline for filing new applications is 30 days prior to the regularly scheduled public hearing. It is the applicant's responsibility to ensure that the application is complete. Applications that are late or incomplete will not be placed on the Board's agenda. Meetings with the staff prior to the submission deadline are encouraged and may be arranged by appointment.

October 31, 2006	November 30, 2006

What happens after the Board Takes Action?

If approved by the Board of Zoning Appeals, the Variance or Appeal often takes effect immediately. The Town notifies the applicant officially of the action by the Board. A Variance becomes a part of the zoning record for the subject property and is filed in the Department of Community Development for future reference. An appeal that amends or overturns a zoning administrator determination becomes part of the official record for the zoning ordinance and affects future interpretation of the ordinance.

If the application involves new development or redevelopment, the applicant then enters the process of site plan review to obtain approval for site development. A separate application would be submitted for review by either the Architectural Review Board (if outside the Heritage Preservation Overlay District) or the Heritage Preservation Review Board (if inside the Heritage Preservation Overlay District.)
